From: hermanussen.aschauhof@t-online.de
To: Ines Varela-Silva
Subject: the book project
Date: 14 October 2010 07:15:09

Dear Ines, slowly the book project takes up speed, and together with Christof, we decided to utilize some very interesting modern internet technology provided by Wikipedia. We put a “wiki” page on my website (www.michael-hermanussen.de), and you just got notice from Wiki containing username (varela-silva) and password to enter this interactive site. I think it is a fascinating concept in writing a book together with so many authors with everybody being able to look what everybody else is just going to produce. It is something like grassroots democracy in writing. For this purpose, Wiki provides passwords for everybody, enabling each of us not only to get on his own, but also on everybody else’s site.

Hope to see you soon

Cordially

MH