Supplementary Data 1

A LARGE MORADISAURINE TOOTH PLATE FROM THE LOWER PERMIAN OF TEXAS AND ITS BIOSTRATIGRAPHIC IMPLICATIONS

SEAN P. MODESTO,^{*,1} VONICA J. FLEAR,¹ MELISSA M. DILNEY,¹ and ROBERT R. REISZ²;

¹Department of Biology, Cape Breton University, Sydney, Nova Scotia, B1P 6L2, Canada, seanmodesto@cbu.ca; ²Department of Biology, University of Toronto Mississauga, 3359 Mississauga Road, Mississauga, Ontario, L5L 1C6, Canada, robert.reisz@utoronto.ca

*Corresponding author.

Institutional Abbreviation—MNHN, Muséum national d'Histoire naturelle, Paris.

FIGURE S1. MNHN MDR1, Moradisaurus grandis, holotype, in part. Maxillae in occlusal view. Anterior is to top of page.