- Title : Evaluating R&R Implementation: A Stepwise Approach
- Subtitle : A Tool for Evaluating R&R Implementation Effectiveness
- Identifier : 10.25397/eur.27889077
- Material Type : Digital Files
- Data Type : Educational Content
- Data Format : Document
- Temporal Coverage : From 2024-12-01
- Spatial Coverage : Worldwide
- Universe : Policies in Education
- Analysis Unit : A policy in Education

• Data Description

This tool is used when R&R or certain aspects of R&R need to be evaluated after some time passed after their introduction. The evaluation looks into the reception and (perceived) success of these policies and will provide recommendations on what needs to change and how based on what was collected by the different methods. The tool is a comprehensive guide to effectively plan and execute an evaluation.

• Description

The Recognition & Rewards programme is an initiative implemented by Dutch universities and research institutions aimed at reshaping how academic achievements and contributions are valued. It seeks to move beyond the traditional focus on research output (e.g., publications and impact factors) to a broader, more inclusive evaluation framework. The programme reflects a shift in academic culture to foster collaboration, societal impact, diversity, and personal development alongside academic excellence.

- Description

Recognition & Rewards is geared towards the betterment of the academic community; hence this evaluation aims to find out how successful the implementation of R&R has been at a School. Therefore, the whole academic community of a School can benefit from it. Evaluation is initiated by the management/leadership of a School but the takeaways and the policy revisions will benefit everyone.
