

The relationship between the genes accounting for molecular diagnoses and the year of their discovery.

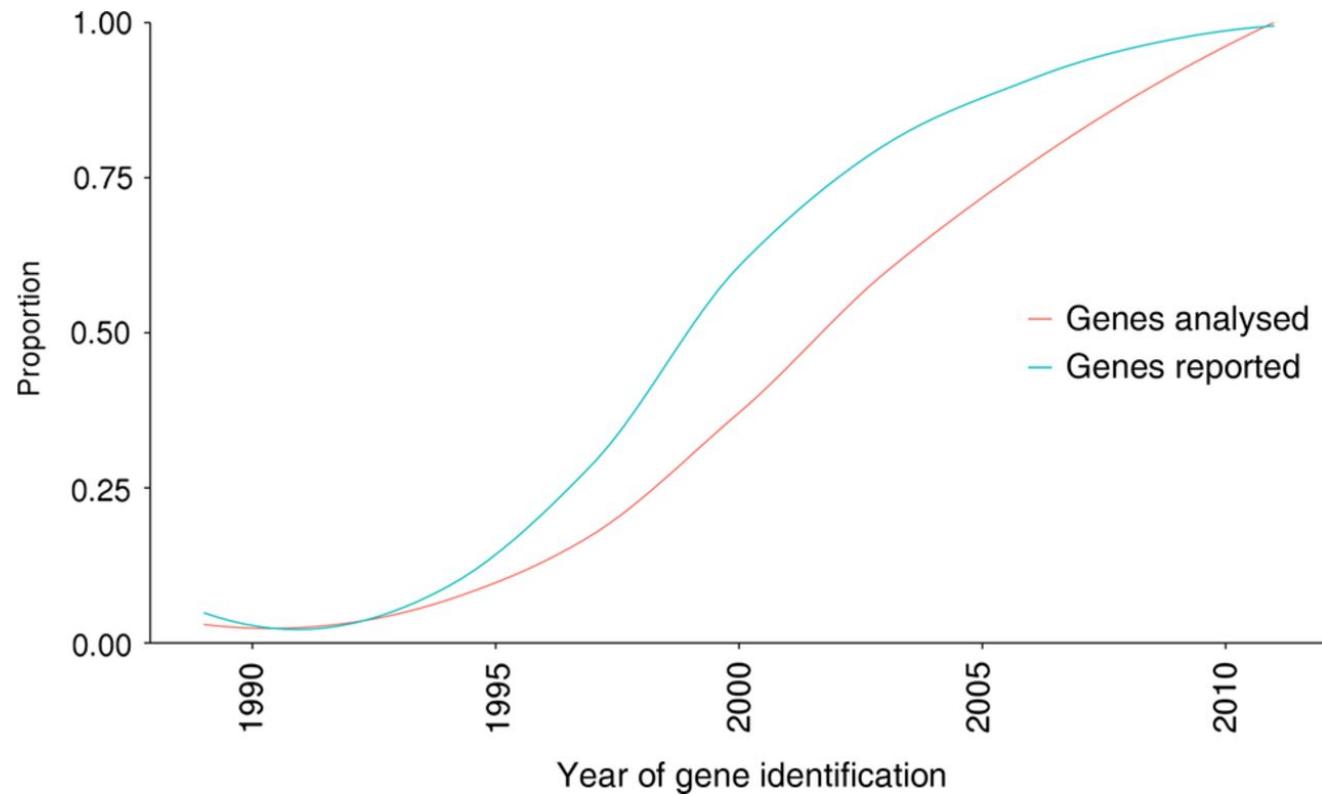

Figure 3: The relationship between the genes accounting for molecular diagnoses and the year of their discovery. The curves illustrate the trends in the proportion of 271 molecular diagnoses accounted for by the analysis of 105 genes through diagnostic next-generation sequencing.

Jamie M Ellingford et al. J Med Genet doi:10.1136/jmedgenet-2016-103837