

Japanese paste-Resist Dyeing (Katazome) and Brush Dyeing (Hikizome) with Plant Dyes

Mamiko Markham December 5th 2017 ULITA

This document should not be published as various images within are copyright of Museum of Domestic Design & Architecture (MoDA), ULITA and others.

Copyright © Mamiko Markham 2018

Hikizome (Brush dyeing) is a traditional Japanese technique wherein a brush is used to apply the dye.

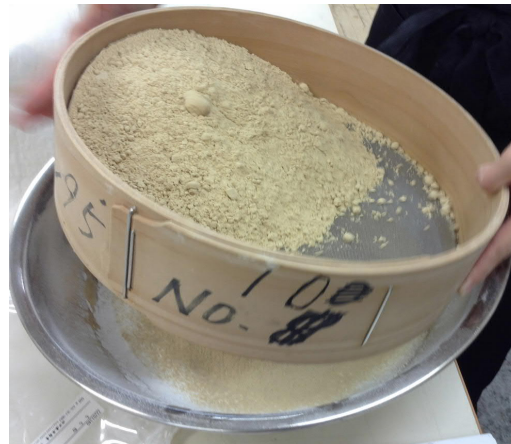

Making the glue

Ingredients

Glutinous rice 100g

Rice bran 100g

Water 100-150ml

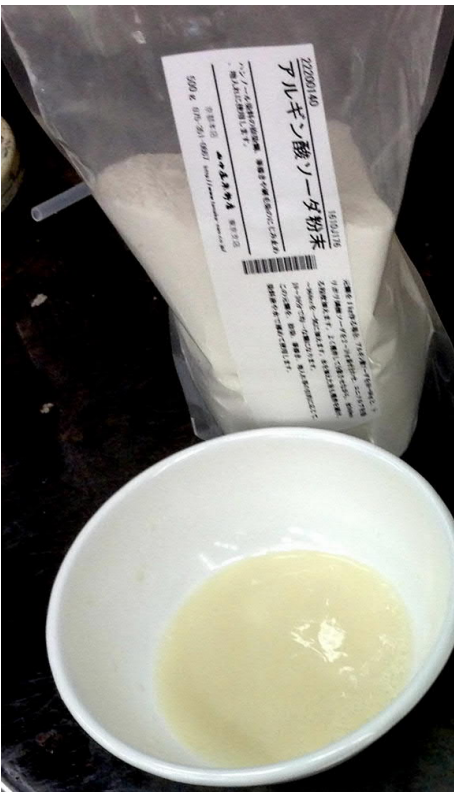

Applying the glue

Jiire(Sizing)

Ingredients:

- 50ml of soybeans in water
- 2g Sodium Alginate+200ml water
- 1000ml water

The basic way to make plant dye for brush dyeing

Logwood

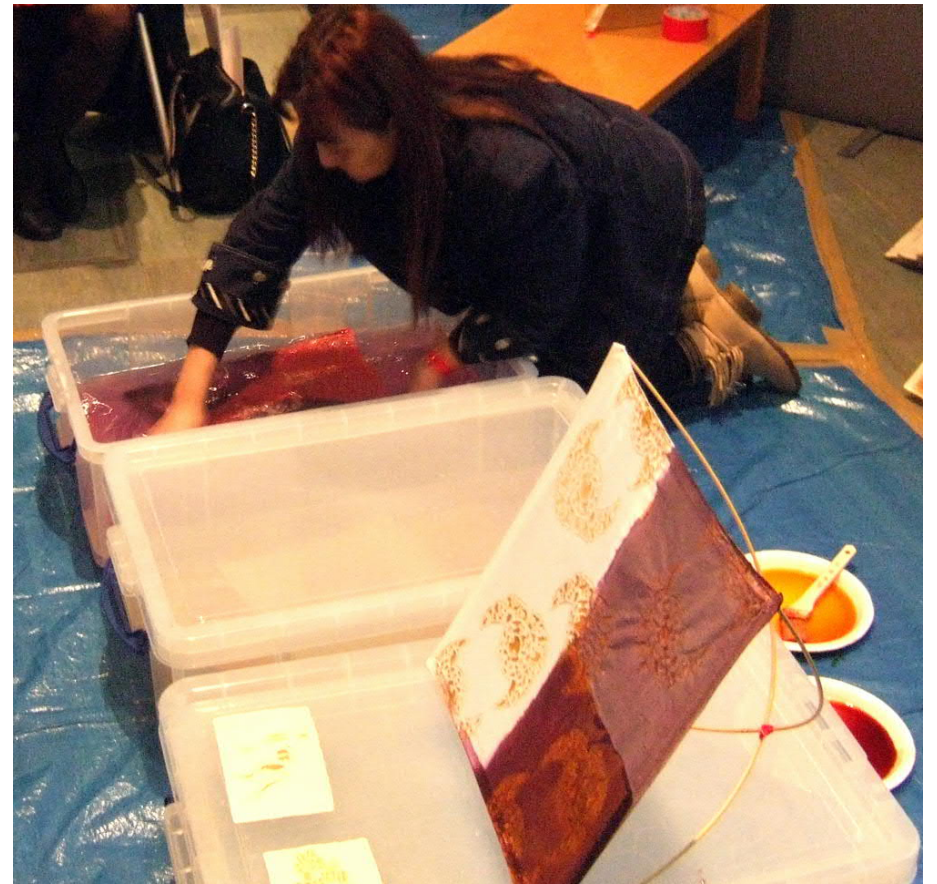

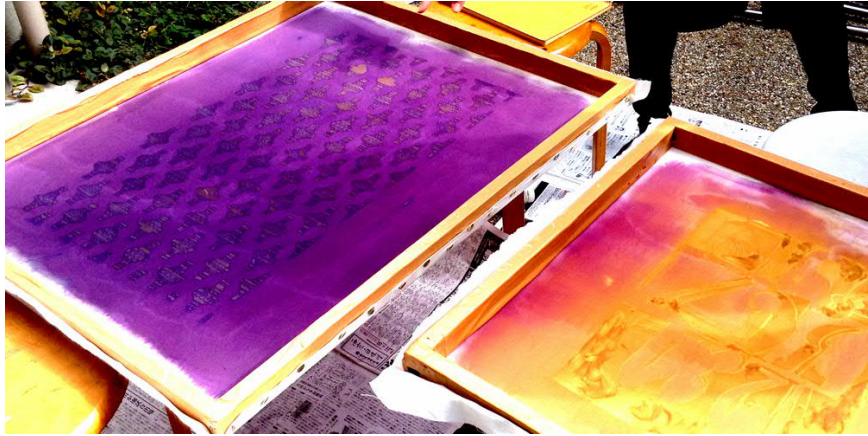

Sappanwood

Ingredients:

- 50g of dried plant
- 1000ml water or more

Dyeing

How to make natural mordant

Ingredients:
- 10g alum and
600ml water

This document should not be published as various images within are copyright of Museum of Domestic Design & Architecture (MoDA), ULITA and others.