Welcome to Nowhere

There are no spectators here, only participants. No audience, only players. Here on this sere and desolate plain, our community springs from the desert floor like a strange and beautiful mushroom, a postmodern Brigadoon in an ancient wasteland. Its name is whatever you name it. Its wealth is whatever you bring. Next week it will be gone, but next week might as well be never. You are here now.

"Precooked, they've come, roasted by society, soul-seared, half-baked, and hard-boiled; sun-dried, heat-blasted, and cheese-fried to a crackly crisp, they've come over the mountains and into the desert to smolder as one at the feet of the great symbol of their own relentless combustion. They have come to see the Burning Man."

Desert Survival Tips

WATER: Your registration packet recommended one gallon per person per day, and we weren't kidding. Dehydration is your #1 enemy in the desert. Drink water

“The Cacophony Society is a randomly gathered network of free spirits united in the pursuit of experiences beyond the pale of mainstream society. YOU MAY ALREADY BE A MEMBER.”
